

This letter is to formally confirm that Mr. Aliasger Adamally completed an internship with our organisation from January 2024 to March 2024, working in a creative and content-driven role.

Throughout the duration of his internship, Aliasger demonstrated a consistently high level of commitment, reliability, and initiative. He approached his responsibilities with seriousness and enthusiasm, showing a genuine interest in understanding both the creative and strategic aspects of the work assigned to him. His attitude toward learning was proactive, and he displayed a strong ability to absorb feedback and translate it into measurable improvement.

Aliasger contributed across multiple areas, including blog writing, infographic design, content editing, and visual storytelling. He played a key role in creating AI-related infographics based on editorial material, where he showed particular strength in simplifying complex ideas into clear, engaging visual formats without losing accuracy or intent.

Beyond his core responsibilities, Aliasger made several notable contributions. These included supporting the production of a demo motion video for a client pitch, assisting with video stitching and basic animations, and helping to prepare a company-wide internal retreat presentation deck under an extremely tight deadline. During this period, he worked with focus and persistence, demonstrating accountability and the ability to perform effectively under pressure. He also contributed a written piece analysing brand redesign strategies, reflecting strong research skills and thoughtful insight into branding and market positioning.

Aliasger proved to be quick in picking up new tools, workflows, and creative processes. He worked well independently, while also integrating smoothly into team-based projects. His communication was clear and professional, and he consistently met expectations regarding quality and timeliness.

Overall, Aliasger is a capable, driven, and dependable individual with strong creative instincts and a disciplined approach to work. He conducted himself professionally at all times and added tangible value to the projects he was involved in. We would recommend him confidently for future professional opportunities.
